

Useful Links for Teachers not already included on the CfA Website

The Classics Library: <https://www.theclassicslibrary.com/>

The site for Classics teachers everywhere – resources, ideas, events, everything is there that teachers could want, and if it isn't there, just ask the relevant group!

Minimus: <http://www.minimuslatin.co.uk/>

This is the new Minimus website – lots of new resources have been added, including a Latin Picture Dictionary and some Attainment Tests.

OCR Qualifications in Classics: <https://www.ocr.org.uk/subjects/classics/>

Here you can find all information about qualifications in Latin, Ancient Greek, Classical Civilisation and Ancient History.

KCL Classics Department Resources for Teachers: <https://www.kcl.ac.uk/classics/our-connections/schools-network>

Although these are included on the CfA Website, I wanted to draw your attention to them because they are keen to get teacher feedback on what is there and what teachers would like to see on there. Please email Anna if there is anything you would like to see included.

Out of Chaos Theatre Group: <https://www.out-of-chaos.co.uk/>

A fantastic theatre group who have done readings of Greek Tragedy and are also hosting a Medea Competition.

Khan Academy: <https://www.khanacademy.org/humanities>

This was one of my favourite websites when I was teaching – some great videos on the Greek Art, but they also have a good section on History – Greeks, Persians, Romans.

Ure Museum of Greek Archaeology: <https://collections.reading.ac.uk/ure-museum/learn/>

A fantastic bank of resources for Key Stage 2 up to A Level. Particularly useful perhaps during online teaching/learning.

MORE TO COME:

Email if there is anything you think is useful that we could share with other teachers, and check back for more links added over time.
